

BIO: Congressman Barry Loudermilk, 117th Congress

Congressman Barry Loudermilk, a Constitutional Conservative, represents northwest Georgia's 11th Congressional District.

In the 117th Congress, Congressman Loudermilk serves as a member of the U.S. House Financial Services Committee, the Committee on House Administration, and the Joint Committee on the Library. He also serves as a member of the Republican Study Committee (RSC) – a conservative caucus of House Republicans.

Before being elected to Congress in 2014, he was a small business owner for over 20 years. He also served in the Georgia State legislature for nine years.

A Georgia native, Congressman Loudermilk holds an Associate Degree in Telecommunications Technology, and a Bachelor of Science in Occupational Education and Information Systems Technology. And he proudly served in the U.S. Air Force for eight years in the intelligence and technology fields.

He is the former owner of an information technology services business, and is an author, historian, and motivational speaker.

He and his wife Desiree have been married since 1983. They reside in northwest Georgia and have three grown children and five grandchildren.